To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to write a letter of recommendation for Karey Johnson. In my role as Internship Coordinator for the College of Information at The Florida State University, I am tasked with matching clients with appropriate student interns. I supervise approximately 15-20 interns each semester in a variety of positions from community service to high profile projects within the Tallahassee community.

When Karey joined our team, he quickly emerged as a leader among his peers. I assigned him to lead a critical project that was in a state of crisis when I took over the program. Karey showed great leadership in this position. He was able to effectively communicate with the client in a professional manner to calm their fears, and promised (and ultimately delivered) a finished product that several interns before him were unable to accomplish. He provided a detailed project timeline that was honest and realistic and supervised other students to help him accomplish tasks. He met each goal and deadline on time and under budget. Needless to say, the client was very, very pleased. His professionalism and skill in this endeavor shone brightly on our program and did a great deal to help turn it around.

I highly recommend Karey to your organization without hesitation. He is professional, dedicated, hard working, and very talented. I believe that any organization that he chooses to join will be fortunate to have him on their team. Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have further questions.

Sincerely,

Jarre Barrager
